

A community of leaders

ECFR's pan-European reach is enhanced by our Council of prominent Europeans, who through their individual networks and collective engagement, help to Europeanise the national conversations on the EU's foreign policy priorities and dilemmas.

Our annual Council meeting stands out in a crowded market of conferences and events, retaining the intimacy and interactivity of a private club while rivals balloon in size. It follows the energy of the European debate to different locations and seven cities have hosted the Council meeting – Berlin, Madrid, Paris, Stockholm, Tallinn, Warsaw, and Vienna. Most importantly, it combines big ideas about where Europe and the world are going with practical discussion about how to make them happen.

Memorable speakers have included George Soros on the financial crisis; Martti Ahtisaari on how to win a Nobel Peace Prize; Zbigniew Brzezinski on Obama's foreign policy; Catherine Ashton on building a European External Action Service; Joschka Fischer and David Miliband debating a two speed Europe; and Herman van Rompuy on the German question.
